CASTING FOR:

David Kahn: (late 40's to early 60's): Wealthy Manhattan Modern art dealer. Revels in his lavish lifestyle surrounded by art and successful artists. Has a razor wit, finely polished sense of sarcasm. Does not hold up well in a crisis.

Barbara Kahn: (late 40's to early 60's): David's wife and business partner. Stylish, worldly. Appearances are important and she has done a good job at distancing herself from her odd relations and Long Island roots.

Trudy Heyman: (40's - 60's): Barbara's sister. Socially awkward, sensible to a fault, put-upon and a bit naive. Taking care of her aging Jewish mother has taken a toll on her.

Martin Heyman: (40's -60's): Trudy's husband - a bespectacled tax accountant and happily so. Also uncomfortable in David and Barbara's world.

Sophie Greengrass: (to portray 70's - 80's): A formidable Jewish mother; a bit unkempt at first, walks with a walker, hair is wild and can't hear well. This does not diminish her ability to use guilt on her daughters. As the play progresses, Sophie begins to change and blossom.

Maurice Koenig: (to portray late 90s): A legendary artist modeled after Marc Chagall. Maurice is a stylish, nattily dressed artist. Even at his age, he is a bit of a lady's man.

This hilarious Broadway comedy focuses on a trendy New York couple who are art dealers. Their domestic tranquility is shattered upon the arrival of the wife's uptight sister, her nerdy CPA husband, and her walker-bound archetypal senior citizen Jewish mother. They have arrived to, unexpectedly, drop off Mom while they head to Buffalo to save their college-student daughter from the horrors of "living only for sex". Sparks continue to fly when their senior mother hits it off with the elderly minimalist artist who is David and Barbara's best client!
